COMPETITORS from the Lorn area had another successful Highlands and Islands Music and Dance Festival this year.

Hundreds of visitors flocked to Oban for the traditional music and dance event, which always seems to bask in the sunshine.

Among the more successful Lorn musicians was Dalmally saxophone player Neil Rowan who was voted joint winner of the Jimmy Feighan Trophy. The trophy is awarded to the best performance at the prizewinners concert.

Neil's appearance at the concert was down to his superb results during the festival.

He came first in the woodwind intermediate section and his accumulated scores in this competition gave him the HIMDF Lorne Trophy as overall winner in the woodwind sections.

Kim MacDonald, formerly of Oban, and Alice Inglis of Kilninver retained their Secondary Duet title. t19mdf10
