Baker's Ali Hakin.

Some of the cast have been involved in Spotlight for more than 15 years and love performing in the annual Spotlight production.

Stephen said: 'From my point of view I always enjoy rehearsals with this cast because you have a good laugh.

But the closer it gets to the performance, the more intense and less fun it gets.

'The moments before you go on stage are not pleasant at all because you are waiting for people to get into the hall but once you are on the stage it is one of the best feelings in the world.'

Oklahoma is set in Claremore in 1906 and tells the story of Curly McLain and his romance with farmer girl Laurey.

Their love is challenged by villainous farm hand Jud Fry and the duration of the musical follows the contest between the two men.

The Spotlight production will be showing at the Corran Halls, Oban on March 1, 2 and 3. Tickets are available from the Corran Halls.
