

DUNSTAFFNAGE

THE FIRST ever Dunstaffnage Musical Festival was declared a success by organisers, the bands and the rather smaller number than hoped festival-goers who spent the weekend listening to around 30 bands on two stages.

Despite some ropey weather and small crowds on the Friday and Saturday afternoons, the evenings saw the audience swell to 400-500 on Friday and around 800-1000 on Saturday.

Festival goers show their appreciation as The Amphetameanies

Harry and Houston had the crowd singing along with their cover versions on Saturday afternoon. t31dmf55