

THERE'S a new face at helm of insurance broker Clark Thomson's Oban branch.

Nicky MacIver has joined the team as branch manager, replacing Stewart Hunter who has taken up a job as the company's IT coordinator at its head office in Perth.

Nicky moved to Oban in June to take up the challenge of a new role within the company and admitted the beauty of the west coast was a factor in her decision.

She has 18 years' experience in insurance and comes to Oban from the company's Inverness branch where she was an account executive, dealing with a large client portfolio involving all classes of commercial insurance.

Nicky said: 'I like to look after my clients and make sure they receive the best advice. Hopefully they will see the advantages of using a local broker.'

Nicky is relishing her new role in Oban and believes her experience in dealing with all aspects of insurance will allow her to give her clients the best possible service.

'I hope to develop the existing client portfolio and attract new clients and I will be available to visit businesses to discuss their insurance needs,' she said.

'I aim to give a very professional, competitive and personal service, which is what Clark Thomson strives to deliver.

'We will continue to provide an excellent local insurance one-stop shop for all commercial and personal insurance needs.'
