MATCHES MADE IN HEAVEN, COURTESY OF INITIAL APPROACH!

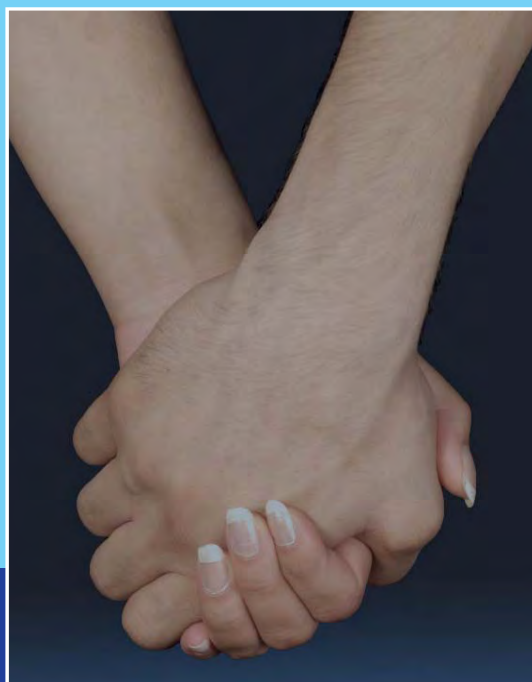

When Sandra Menoni set up Initial Approach and matched her first couple way back in 1993, she didn't dare hope that just fifteen years later she'd be looking forward to celebrating her 120th wedding. Yet that is exactly the position she is in now, with 112 weddings notched up and at least another eight expected during 2008!

This unique Scottish introduction agency offers its clients a choice of four different ways to meet like-minded single people and each service has had its fair share of success. The most popular is Introductions, where members can choose who they'd like to meet from profiles of specially selected prospective partners. Or you can join Occasions, which offers a full calendar of social events and is a sure-fire way of boosting your self-esteem and confidence, particularly if you are nervous about meeting people on a one to one basis. During the winter, most of the events are lunches, dinner dances and party nights – and with around 100 single people at almost every event, it's a chance to forge new friendships with members of both sexes. When the better weather comes, the great outdoors beckons and Occasions members have been known to tackle everything from gorge walking and rock climbing to canoeing and paintballing.

Sometimes when you are single it's difficult to find someone to go on holiday with, and that's where Vacations comes in. On the agenda so far for 2008 are breaks to India and Russia. Finally, Scottish singles can get in touch with other eligible members across the world by letter or e-mail through Selections worldwide introduction service. So far the agency has added two international success stories to its list of weddings.

Sandra's team of matchmakers, which includes her son, Silvano, who is Managing Director, and office manager Alan, take time to get to know their members really well and everyone applying to join Introductions, Occasions and Vacations is personally interviewed before being offered membership. It's a formula that continues to work and it looks as if there'll be many more matches - made in Dunblane!
